

Campus

The Detmolder Schule für Architektur und Innenarchitektur stands out for its rich variety, based on its two courses of study, Architecture and Interior Architecture. The course of study in interior design is the largest in Germany. The study of architecture and interior architecture in Detmold is characterised by the following aspects:

- _ An advanced analysis of liveable space – interior and exterior space, buildings, public squares, urban and rural landscapes
- _ The interdisciplinary interaction of architecture, interior design, media production, civil engineering, etc.
- _ An international dimension, with university partnerships in Brazil, China, Italy, Korea, Norway and Poland

- _ Holistic, creative and practice oriented study
- _ The possibility to combine the studies of architecture and interior architecture
- _ The possibility to specialise within a course of study, and develop one's individual profile.